MARK SCHEME

General Marking Instructions

Introduction

The main purpose of a mark scheme is to ensure that examinations are marked accurately, consistently and fairly. The mark scheme provides examiners with an indication of the nature and range of candidates' responses likely to be worthy of credit. It also sets out the criteria which they should apply in allocating marks to candidates' responses.

Assessment objectives

Below are the assessment objectives for GCE Religious Studies

Candidates should be able to:

- demonstrate knowledge and understanding of religion, including:
 - religious, philosophical and/or ethical thought and teaching;
 - influence of beliefs, teachings and practices on individuals, communities and societies;
 - cause and significance of similarities and differences in belief, teaching and practice; and
 - approaches to the study of religion and belief (AO1); and
- analyse and evaluate aspects of, and approaches to, religion and belief, including their significance, influence and study (AO2).

Quality of candidates' responses

In marking the examination papers, examiners should be looking for a quality of response reflecting the level of maturity which may reasonably be expected of a 17- or 18-year-old which is the age at which the majority of candidates sit their GCE examinations.

Flexibility in marking

Mark schemes are not intended to be totally prescriptive. No mark scheme can cover all the responses which candidates may produce. In the event of unanticipated answers, examiners are expected to use their professional judgement to assess the validity of answers. If an answer is particularly problematic, then examiners should seek the guidance of the Supervising Examiner.

Positive marking

Examiners are encouraged to be positive in their marking, giving appropriate credit for what candidates know, understand and can do rather than penalising candidates for errors or omissions. Examiners should make use of the whole of the available mark range for any particular question and be prepared to award full marks for a response which is as good as might reasonably be expected of a 17- or 18-year-old GCE candidate.

Awarding zero marks

Marks should only be awarded for valid responses and no marks should be awarded for an answer which is completely incorrect or inappropriate.

Mark schemes for tasks or questions which require candidates to respond in extended written form are marked on the basis of levels of response which take account of the quality of written communication.

Levels of response

In deciding which level of response to award, examiners should look for the 'best fit' bearing in mind that weakness in one area may be compensated for by strength in another. In deciding which mark within a particular level to award to any response, examiners are expected to use their professional judgement.

The following guidance is provided to assist examiners.

- Threshold performance: Response which just merits inclusion in the level and should be awarded a mark at or near the bottom of the range.
- Intermediate performance: Response which clearly merits inclusion in the level and should be awarded a mark at or near the middle of the range.
- High performance: Response which fully satisfies the level description and should be awarded a mark at or near the top of the range.

Each of the two assessment objectives have been categorised into five levels of performance relating to the respective abilities of the candidates. Having identified, for each assessment objective, the band in which the candidate has performed, the examiner should then decide on the appropriate mark within the range for the band.

Other Aspects of Human Experience at AS Level

Candidates must engage with other aspects of human experience, when required, to access Bands 3–5.

Synoptic Assessment at A2 Level

Candidates must refer to different units of study in their AO1 response to access Bands 4–5.

Candidates must engage with other aspects of human experience in their AO2 response to access Bands 3–5.

Quality of written communication

Quality of written communication is taken into account in assessing candidates' responses to all tasks and questions that require them to respond in extended written form. These tasks and questions are marked on the basis of levels of response. The description for each level of response includes reference to the quality of written communication.

For conciseness, quality of written communication is distinguished within levels of response as follows:

- Level 1: Quality of written communication is basic.
- Level 2: Quality of written communication is limited.
- Level 3: Quality of written communication is good.
- Level 4: Quality of written communication is very good.
- Level 5: Quality of written communication is excellent.

In interpreting these level descriptions, examiners should refer to the more detailed guidance provided below:

Level 1 (Basic): The candidate makes only a basic selection and use of an appropriate form and style of writing. The organisation of material lacks clarity and coherence. There is little or no use of specialist vocabulary. Presentation, spelling, punctuation and grammar are basic and the intended meaning is not clear.

Level 2 (Limited): The candidate makes a limited selection and use of an appropriate form and style of writing. The organisation of material may lack clarity and coherence. There is limited use of specialist vocabulary. Presentation, spelling, punctuation and grammar may be such that intended meaning is not clear.

Level 3 (Good): The candidate makes a reasonable selection and use of an appropriate form and style of writing. Relevant material is organised with some clarity and coherence. There is good use of appropriate specialist vocabulary. Presentation, spelling, punctuation and grammar are sufficiently competent to make meaning clear.

Level 4 (Very Good): The candidate makes a very good selection and use of an appropriate form and style of writing. Relevant material is organised with clarity and coherence. There is very good use of appropriate specialist vocabulary. Presentation, spelling, punctuation and grammar are of a very good standard to make meaning clear.

Level 5 (Excellent): The candidate successfully selects and uses the most appropriate form and style of writing. Relevant material is organised with a high degree of clarity and coherence. There is widespread and accurate use of appropriate specialist vocabulary. Presentation, spelling, punctuation and grammar are of a sufficiently high standard to make meaning clear.

Band	AO1 Performance Descriptors	Marks
5	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> An excellent response to the question asked Demonstrates comprehensive understanding and knowledge Demonstrates a comprehensive understanding of the influence of beliefs, teachings and practices on individuals, communities and societies A very high degree of relevant evidence and examples A sophisticated answer with a clear and coherent structure An extensive range of technical language and vocabulary with accurate use of spelling, punctuation and grammar 	[21]–[25]

Answer one question.

- 1 (a) "Various factors were responsible for the rapid growth of the Church in the first three centuries." Explain the truth of this statement.

Answers may include:

- The Roman Empire influenced the lives of all who lived within its boundaries
- Initially, the Roman authorities did not distinguish between Christianity and Judaism, which was a recognised licenced religion within the Empire
- The Pax Romana gave political stability which made it safe to travel throughout the Empire
- There was an excellent communications network of Roman roads linking major cities
- Greek, the universal language, made it easy to transmit the gospel message
- Paul was a Roman citizen and was granted the protection of Roman law wherever he went
- Jewish persecution of the Church in Jerusalem led to the dispersion of Christians to other areas of Judea and Samaria
- Converts on the Day of Pentecost spread the Christian message across a wide geographical area of the Empire and beyond
- Christian beliefs provided a philosophical basis of faith which appealed to those who found traditional Roman religion unfulfilling.
- Practical application of charity
- Divine Providence

- (b) Comment on the claim that Christianity did not attract converts from every level of society. Justify your answer.

AVAILABLE
MARKS

Answers may include:

- The earliest converts in the New Testament ranged from fishermen, e.g. Peter to successful businesswomen, e.g. Lydia
- Evidence of Christians in the slave/servant class, e.g. Didache describes meetings before dawn, suggesting this was worshippers' only free time
- Celsus' remarks about how teachers and house servants evangelised women and children
- Christians in the Roman army, e.g. Tertullian's condemnation of Christians who were soldiers
- The willingness of Constantine's troops to accept his conversion experience and the changes that followed
- Many martyrs were of low social status, e.g. Blandina, Ponticus
- Evidence of Christians in the higher echelons of society
- Flavius and Domitilla
- Diocletian's wife and daughter
- The business/merchant class, e.g. Justin's statement about why people become Christians
- Christians educated in philosophy, e.g. Justin, Origen
- Christian friendship/loyalty cutting across the social divide, e.g. Perpetua and Felicitas
- Pliny's comment that Christianity had spread to all social classes.

- 2 (a) Give an account of the development of the practice and doctrine of the Eucharist, with particular reference to Hippolytus and Cyprian.

AVAILABLE
MARKS

Answers may include:

- Its origins in the Passover meal
- Gospel accounts of the Last Supper
- Paul's explanation of its true meaning and his condemnation of the Corinthian church
- Gradual separation of the Agape and the Eucharist
- Changing practice about who could administer it and who could receive it
- Pagan misunderstandings about the nature of the meal
- Reference may be made to all relevant sources but specific reference should be made to Hippolytus and Cyprian

Hippolytus

- Two accounts of the Eucharist, e.g. for the ordination of a bishop and for the newly baptised
- Service now has a set formal pattern
- Deacons present elements to the bishop, who consecrates them, assisted by the presbyter
- Very detailed eucharistic prayer, similar to that still in use today
- Emphasis on the Eucharist as both thanksgiving and sacrifice
- Bread and wine are 'holy'
- Care must be taken not to drop or spill them.

Cyprian

- The Eucharist must exactly replicate Jesus' actions at the Last Supper
- Wine must be used – he attacks Aquarians for using water which makes the sacrament invalid
- The priest is the representative of Christ and fulfils his role
- The priest sacramentally re-enacts the sacrificial death of Jesus and its saving power
- The Eucharist for the dead is an established custom.

- (b) Consider how far it is true to say that the Eucharist was the most important part of Christian worship. Justify your answer.

AVAILABLE MARKS

Answers may include:

- The Eucharist was at the core of all Christian worship in this period
- It was carried out at the direct command of Jesus
- All the early sources placed great emphasis on how it should be administered
- There were very strict rules about who had the authority to administer it
- It could not be received by those who had not been baptised
- A person denied the sacrament through excommunication had no salvation
- Arrangements were provided to administer it to the sick and dying
- Baptism was more important because no one could become a member of the Christian community or receive the Eucharist without having been baptised
- Penance, pastoral concerns and practical demonstrations of faith were also of vital importance.

Answer one question.

- 3 (a) Discuss the main themes in the writings of Ignatius of Antioch.

Answers may include:

- Heresy – two types of heretic attacked, Docetists and Judaisers
- Ignatius' response – emphasis on Jesus' humanity as well as divinity, reality of his suffering, insistence that authority of Old Testament superceded by Jesus
- Unity – Ignatius' response to the danger of disunity in the church
- Absolute authority of the local bishop, "Do nothing without the bishop"
- First writer to speak of threefold ministry of bishop, presbyters and deacons. There is no evidence that this was the practice elsewhere in the church
- Martyrdom – Ignatius' determination to die as a martyr in order to identify himself with Christ in his sufferings
- Plea to the Roman church not to prevent this
- Possible reflection of Ignatius' insecurity or neuroticism
- Beginnings of a 'martyr cult' in the church
- Setting Ignatius in context as one of the Apostolic Fathers
- Brief biographical details – Bishop of Antioch, journey to Rome, martyrdom, connection with Polycarp
- Seven letters written to the churches of Asia Minor, Rome and to Polycarp during his journey..

- (b) With reference to other aspects of human experience, assess the claim that martyrdom is no longer an issue for the religious believer. Justify your answer.

AVAILABLE
MARKS

Answers may include:

- Attacks on Christians are still widespread in various parts of the world
- Christian churches in India have been burnt and congregations murdered by radical Hindus
- Christian university students in Kenya targeted by Muslim extremists during morning prayers
- Assaults on Christian churches in Iraq, Iran and Syria by ISIS
- Middle Eastern Christians forced to flee their homes and become refugees
- Evidence from a United Nations report that Islamic State militants have abducted Christian Iraqi children and crucified them or buried them alive
- While attacks by ISIS in the Western world are mainly political, evidence that in some cases Christians are being specifically separated out and targeted for death
- Most Christians in the West will never face a direct threat of martyrdom
- Church leaders, e.g. Pope Francis and the Patriarch of Jerusalem have held vigils and spoken out to highlight the plight of modern martyrs and to challenge the Western church to act on their behalf
- The tradition of achieving martyrdom through severe asceticism.

- 4 (a) Discuss the accounts of Constantine's conversion with particular reference to the influence of earlier events in his life.

AVAILABLE
MARKS

Answers may include:

- Specific knowledge of the content of the two major sources, Eusebius and Lactantius
- Differences between the sources
- Eusebius' much fuller account in which Constantine prayed for divine aid and saw the sign of the cross in the sky with the message, "In this sign conquer". Later, in a dream, God told him to use this sign in battle
- Lactantius' brief account in which Constantine was instructed in a dream to use the sign of the cross on his soldiers' shields in battle
- Reliability of the sources and the possibility of bias since both Eusebius and Lactantius were favourably disposed towards Constantine
- Influences from his early life
- Mother Helena showed strong Christian sympathies in later life, his sister was named Anastasia (Resurrection) which suggests some Christian influence in his family
- Upbringing in the Court of Diocletian where he would have witnessed Christian persecution and the bravery of the martyrs, also the growing failure of persecution to stamp out Christianity
- Diocletian's wife and daughter were Christians
- His father Constantius was Caesar of the Western Empire and carried out very little persecution which may have influenced Constantine, who joined him there
- An observation of the growing number of Christians may have made Constantine believe it was better to have them on his side in the struggle for power
- Worshipper of Apollo, the Sun God and so was already disposed towards a monotheistic religion.

- (b) “Religious conversion is always a dramatic event in the life of the religious believer.” Evaluate the truth of this statement with particular reference to other aspects of human experience. Justify your answer.

AVAILABLE MARKS

Answers may include:

- New Testament evidence of sudden, dramatic conversions leading to a change of lifestyle
- Disciples who left their ordinary lives behind to follow Jesus, e.g. Peter, Matthew, Zacchaeus
- Conversion of Saul/Paul on the road to Damascus was lifechanging and led to a total commitment to spread the gospel
- Different ways of defining conversion
- Personal choice to identify with Christianity or other religious faith
- Means by which a person obtains salvation
- Conversion can be a radical change of heart and lifestyle, e.g. St Paul
- Gradual conversion experience, e.g. CS Lewis
- Different Christian denominations have different beliefs about conversion
- Many Protestants, especially evangelical Christians, see conversion as a decision/commitment of faith which leads to salvation, being ‘saved’ or ‘born again’
- For Catholics and Anglicans, salvation is received through baptism so there is no need for a dramatic conversion
- Candidates may comment on their personal experience or that of their friends and family.
