MARK SCHEME

General Marking Instructions

Introduction

The main purpose of a mark scheme is to ensure that examinations are marked accurately, consistently and fairly. The mark scheme provides examiners with an indication of the nature and range of candidates' responses likely to be worthy of credit. It also sets out the criteria which they should apply in allocating marks to candidates' responses.

Assessment objectives

Below are the assessment objectives for GCE Religious Studies

Candidates should be able to:

- demonstrate knowledge and understanding of religion, including:
  - religious, philosophical and/or ethical thought and teaching;
  - influence of beliefs, teachings and practices on individuals, communities and societies;
  - cause and significance of similarities and differences in belief, teaching and practice; and
  - approaches to the study of religion and belief (AO1); and
- analyse and evaluate aspects of, and approaches to, religion and belief, including their significance, influence and study (AO2).

Quality of candidates' responses

In marking the examination papers, examiners should be looking for a quality of response reflecting the level of maturity which may reasonably be expected of a 17- or 18-year-old which is the age at which the majority of candidates sit their GCE examinations.

Flexibility in marking

Mark schemes are not intended to be totally prescriptive. No mark scheme can cover all the responses which candidates may produce. In the event of unanticipated answers, examiners are expected to use their professional judgement to assess the validity of answers. If an answer is particularly problematic, then examiners should seek the guidance of the Supervising Examiner.

Positive marking

Examiners are encouraged to be positive in their marking, giving appropriate credit for what candidates know, understand and can do rather than penalising candidates for errors or omissions. Examiners should make use of the whole of the available mark range for any particular question and be prepared to award full marks for a response which is as good as might reasonably be expected of a 17- or 18-year-old GCE candidate.

Awarding zero marks

Marks should only be awarded for valid responses and no marks should be awarded for an answer which is completely incorrect or inappropriate.

Mark schemes for tasks or questions which require candidates to respond in extended written form are marked on the basis of levels of response which take account of the quality of written communication.

Levels of response

In deciding which level of response to award, examiners should look for the 'best fit' bearing in mind that weakness in one area may be compensated for by strength in another. In deciding which mark within a particular level to award to any response, examiners are expected to use their professional judgement.

The following guidance is provided to assist examiners.

- Threshold performance: Response which just merits inclusion in the level and should be awarded a mark at or near the bottom of the range.
- Intermediate performance: Response which clearly merits inclusion in the level and should be awarded a mark at or near the middle of the range.
- High performance: Response which fully satisfies the level description and should be awarded a mark at or near the top of the range.

Each of the two assessment objectives have been categorised into five levels of performance relating to the respective abilities of the candidates. Having identified, for each assessment objective, the band in which the candidate has performed, the examiner should then decide on the appropriate mark within the range for the band.

Other Aspects of Human Experience at AS Level

Candidates must engage with other aspects of human experience, when required, to access Bands 3–5.

Synoptic Assessment at A2 Level

Candidates must refer to different units of study in their AO1 response to access Bands 4–5.

Candidates must engage with other aspects of human experience in their AO2 response to access Bands 3–5.

Quality of written communication

Quality of written communication is taken into account in assessing candidates' responses to all tasks and questions that require them to respond in extended written form. These tasks and questions are marked on the basis of levels of response. The description for each level of response includes reference to the quality of written communication.

For conciseness, quality of written communication is distinguished within levels of response as follows:

- Level 1: Quality of written communication is basic.
- Level 2: Quality of written communication is limited.
- Level 3: Quality of written communication is good.
- Level 4: Quality of written communication is very good.
- Level 5: Quality of written communication is excellent.

In interpreting these level descriptions, examiners should refer to the more detailed guidance provided below:

Level 1 (Basic): The candidate makes only a basic selection and use of an appropriate form and style of writing. The organisation of material lacks clarity and coherence. There is little or no use of specialist vocabulary. Presentation, spelling, punctuation and grammar are basic and the intended meaning is not clear.

Level 2 (Limited): The candidate makes a limited selection and use of an appropriate form and style of writing. The organisation of material may lack clarity and coherence. There is limited use of specialist vocabulary. Presentation, spelling, punctuation and grammar may be such that intended meaning is not clear.

Level 3 (Good): The candidate makes a reasonable selection and use of an appropriate form and style of writing. Relevant material is organised with some clarity and coherence. There is good use of appropriate specialist vocabulary. Presentation, spelling, punctuation and grammar are sufficiently competent to make meaning clear.

Level 4 (Very Good): The candidate makes a very good selection and use of an appropriate form and style of writing. Relevant material is organised with clarity and coherence. There is very good use of appropriate specialist vocabulary. Presentation, spelling, punctuation and grammar are of a very good standard to make meaning clear.

Level 5 (Excellent): The candidate successfully selects and uses the most appropriate form and style of writing. Relevant material is organised with a high degree of clarity and coherence. There is widespread and accurate use of appropriate specialist vocabulary. Presentation, spelling, punctuation and grammar are of a sufficiently high standard to make meaning clear.

- (b) Comment on the claim that 'proofs' for the existence of God will always fail to convince the unbeliever. Justify your answer.

Answers may include:

- Support for the stated claim by atheistic scholars such as Hume, Hitchens, Oppy and Dawkins
- Criticisms of the Ontological, Cosmological and/or Moral argument for the existence of God and reasons why they may fail to convince the nonbeliever
- A scientific critique of Aquinas's arguments and unproven assumptions within the arguments, the fallacy of composition, the possibility of infinite regression
- Reference to the Russell-Coppock debate as supporting and/or destroying the Cosmological argument
- Reference to Gaunilo and Hume's challenges to the ontological argument
- Reference to atheism's multi-stranded case against the existence of the Divine, the rejection of the god-of-the-gaps, belief in the Divine as primitive superstition
- The impact of Chaos and/or String theory on the Cosmological argument
- The distinction between the Ways/Classical arguments and Empirical proofs
- Counterchallenges to the stated claim, the continued popularity and use of the proofs by modern scholars, Plantinga, McGrath, Mackie, Swinburne
- The theistic 'proofs' as answering the question as to why is there something rather than nothing
- Scientific support for a starting point/First Cause to the existence of the universe
- The fact that religious belief/faith is not based on proofs

- (b) Critically assess the claim that the Irenaean Theodicy provides the best solution to evil and suffering. Justify your answer.

Answers may include:

- An evaluation of Irenaeus' soul making theodicy, an exploration of the concept of suffering as serving a positive purpose
- A brief overview of the Irenaean theodicy – humanity as being born in the image of God but as needing to develop into the likeness of God
- An exploration of the allied Freewill Defence Argument and Determinist counterargument
- A comparison of alternative theodices such as the Augustinian theodicy or Process Theodicy as providing a better solution to the problem of evil and suffering
- An exploration of the views of Swinburne and/or Hick in support of the Irenaean theodicy
- A critique of the Irenaean theodicy as being non-scriptural, and as being unjust in offering universal salvation
- Hick, Swinburne and/or Vardy as providing more accessible forms of the soul making argument than Irenaeus
- An exploration as to whether any theodicy can fully resolve the problem/mystery of human suffering and evil
