

Modified Enlarged 24pt
OXFORD CAMBRIDGE AND RSA EXAMINATIONS

Wednesday 15 May 2019 – Afternoon

GCSE English Literature

J352/01 Exploring modern and literary heritage texts

Time allowed: 2 hours
plus your additional time allowance

YOU MUST HAVE:
the OCR 12-page Answer Booklet (OCR12 sent with general stationery)

READ INSTRUCTIONS OVERLEAF

INSTRUCTIONS

Use black ink.

Answer TWO questions. ONE from SECTION A and ONE from SECTION B.

All questions in Section A consist of TWO parts a) and b). Answer BOTH parts of the question on the TEXT THAT YOU HAVE STUDIED.

In Section B, answer ONE question from a choice of two on the TEXT THAT YOU HAVE STUDIED.

Write your answers to each question on the Answer Booklet.

Write the number of each question answered in the margin.

This is a closed text examination.

INFORMATION

The total mark for this paper is 80.

The marks for each question are shown in brackets [].

Quality of extended responses will be assessed in questions marked with an asterisk (*).

SECTION A

Modern prose or drama

Answer ONE question from this section.

- 1 ‘Anita and Me’ by Meera Syal and ‘Tickets, Please!’ by D. H. Lawrence

Read the two extracts below and then
answer both part a) and part b).

You are advised to spend about 45 minutes
on part a) and 30 minutes on part b).

For part a), you should focus only on the extracts here rather than referring to the rest of your studied text.

- a) Compare how groups of women taking charge are presented in these two extracts. You should consider:

the situations and experiences
faced by the characters

how the characters react to these situations and experiences

how the writers' use of language and techniques creates effects. [20]

AND

- b) Explore another moment in 'Anita and Me' where female characters take control. [20]

Extract 1 from: 'Anita and Me' by Meera Syal

In this extract, the group of women known as the Ballbearings Committee are catching the bus to work. Anita's dad Roberto is the driver.

5 There was not much room for dialogue with these women, whose communal tone of voice said, I know the answer but I'll ask you anyway but make it quick, chick. They appeared ensemble as coiffured maenads in belted macs and bright lipsticks who all

10 worked together, lived together and played together, and bounced off the village boundaries like a ballbearing against the sides of a pinball machine. Too much energy and nowhere to put it, and though 15 I knew some of their names, Mrs
Dalmeny, Mrs Spriggs, Mrs Povey,
they seemed to exist and function
as a group.

20 Indeed, their husbands were incidental; all I knew of them was what I would glimpse through half-open doorways on these regular morning panic runs from porch door to approaching bus, men in 25 vests and braces, with rumpled hair who clutched half-read papers and fiddled absent-mindedly with their testicles whilst their wives flung them hurried goodbyes. I 30 noticed there was never any show of affection, no hugs or kisses, not like my parents for whom every leavetaking was accompanied by squeezes, contact numbers on 35 the journey in case of breakdown

40 or terrorist kidnap and always a folded white hanky. Maybe, I told my mother once, they did not love their husbands, that was why we never saw them out together. 'Oh no,' my mother replied. 'They do. They work so their husbands can eat. Their husbands must feel like ghosts. Poor men. Poor women.'

Extract 2 from: 'Tickets, Please!' by D. H. Lawrence

This is an extract from a short story about a tram car service in the North of England. It is set in war time, so the drivers are often 'invalids', men who are not physically fit enough for active war service. The tram conductors are all girls – one of them named Annie Stone.

5

From village to village the miners travel, for a change of cinema, of girl, of pub. The trams are desperately packed. Who is going to risk himself in the black gulf

10 outside, to wait perhaps an hour for another tram, then to see the forlorn notice 'Depot Only' – because there is something wrong; or to greet a unit of three bright cars all so tight with people that they sail past with a howl of derision? Trams that pass in the night!

15 This, the most dangerous tramservice in England, as the authorities themselves declare, with pride, is entirely conducted by girls, and driven by rash young men, or 20 else by invalids who creep forward in terror. The girls are fearless young hussies. In their ugly blue uniforms, skirts up to their knees, shapeless old peaked caps on their heads, they have all the sang-froid 25 of an old non-commissioned officer.
With a tram packed with howling
colliers¹, roaring hymns downstairs and a sort of antiphony of obscenities upstairs, the lasses are 30 perfectly at their ease. They pounce on the youths who try to evade their ticket-machine. They push off the 35 men at the end of their distance.

They are not going to be done in the eye – not they. They fear nobody – and everybody fears them.

‘Halloa, Annie!’

‘Halloa, Ted!’

40 ‘Oh, mind my corn, Miss Stone!
It’s my belief you’ve got a heart of stone, for you’ve trod on it again.’

‘You should keep it in your pocket,’ replies Miss Stone, and she goes sturdily upstairs in her high boots.

¹ coal miners

2 'Never Let Me Go' by Kazuo Ishiguro and 'The Boy with No Shoes' by William Horwood

Read the two extracts below and then
answer both part a) and part b).

You are advised to spend about 45 minutes
on part a) and 30 minutes on part b).

For part a), you should focus only on the extracts here rather than referring to the rest of your studied text.

- a) Compare how the cruelty of young people towards each other is presented in these two extracts. You should consider:

the situations and experiences
faced by the characters

how the characters react to these
situations and experiences

how the writers' use of language and techniques creates effects. [20]

AND

- b) Explore another moment in ‘Never Let Me Go’ where the donors demonstrate cruelty or unkindness to each other. [20]

Extract 1 from: ‘Never Let Me Go’ by Kazuo Ishiguro

In this extract from Chapter One, Kathy and a group of other girls are watching boys (including Tommy) pick sides for football.

‘Look at him,’ someone behind me said. ‘He’s completely convinced he’s going to be first pick. Just look at him.’

- 5 There was something comical about Tommy at that moment, something that made you think, well, yes, if he’s going to be that daft, he deserves what’s coming. The other
- 10 boys were all pretending to ignore the picking process, pretending

15 they didn't care where they came in the order. Some were talking quietly to each other, some re-tying their laces, others just staring down
at their feet as they trammelled the mud. But Tommy was looking eagerly at the Senior 3 boy, as though his name had already been 20 called.

25 Laura kept up her performance all through the team-picking, doing all the different expressions that went across Tommy's face: the bright eager one at the start; the puzzled concern when four picks had gone
by and he still hadn't been chosen;
the hurt and panic as it began to dawn on him what was really going 30 on. I didn't keep glancing round at Laura, though, because I was watching Tommy; I only knew what she was doing because the others kept laughing and egging her on.
35 Then when Tommy was left standing alone, and the boys all began sniggering, I heard Ruth say:

‘It’s coming. Hold it. Seven seconds. Seven, six, five ...’

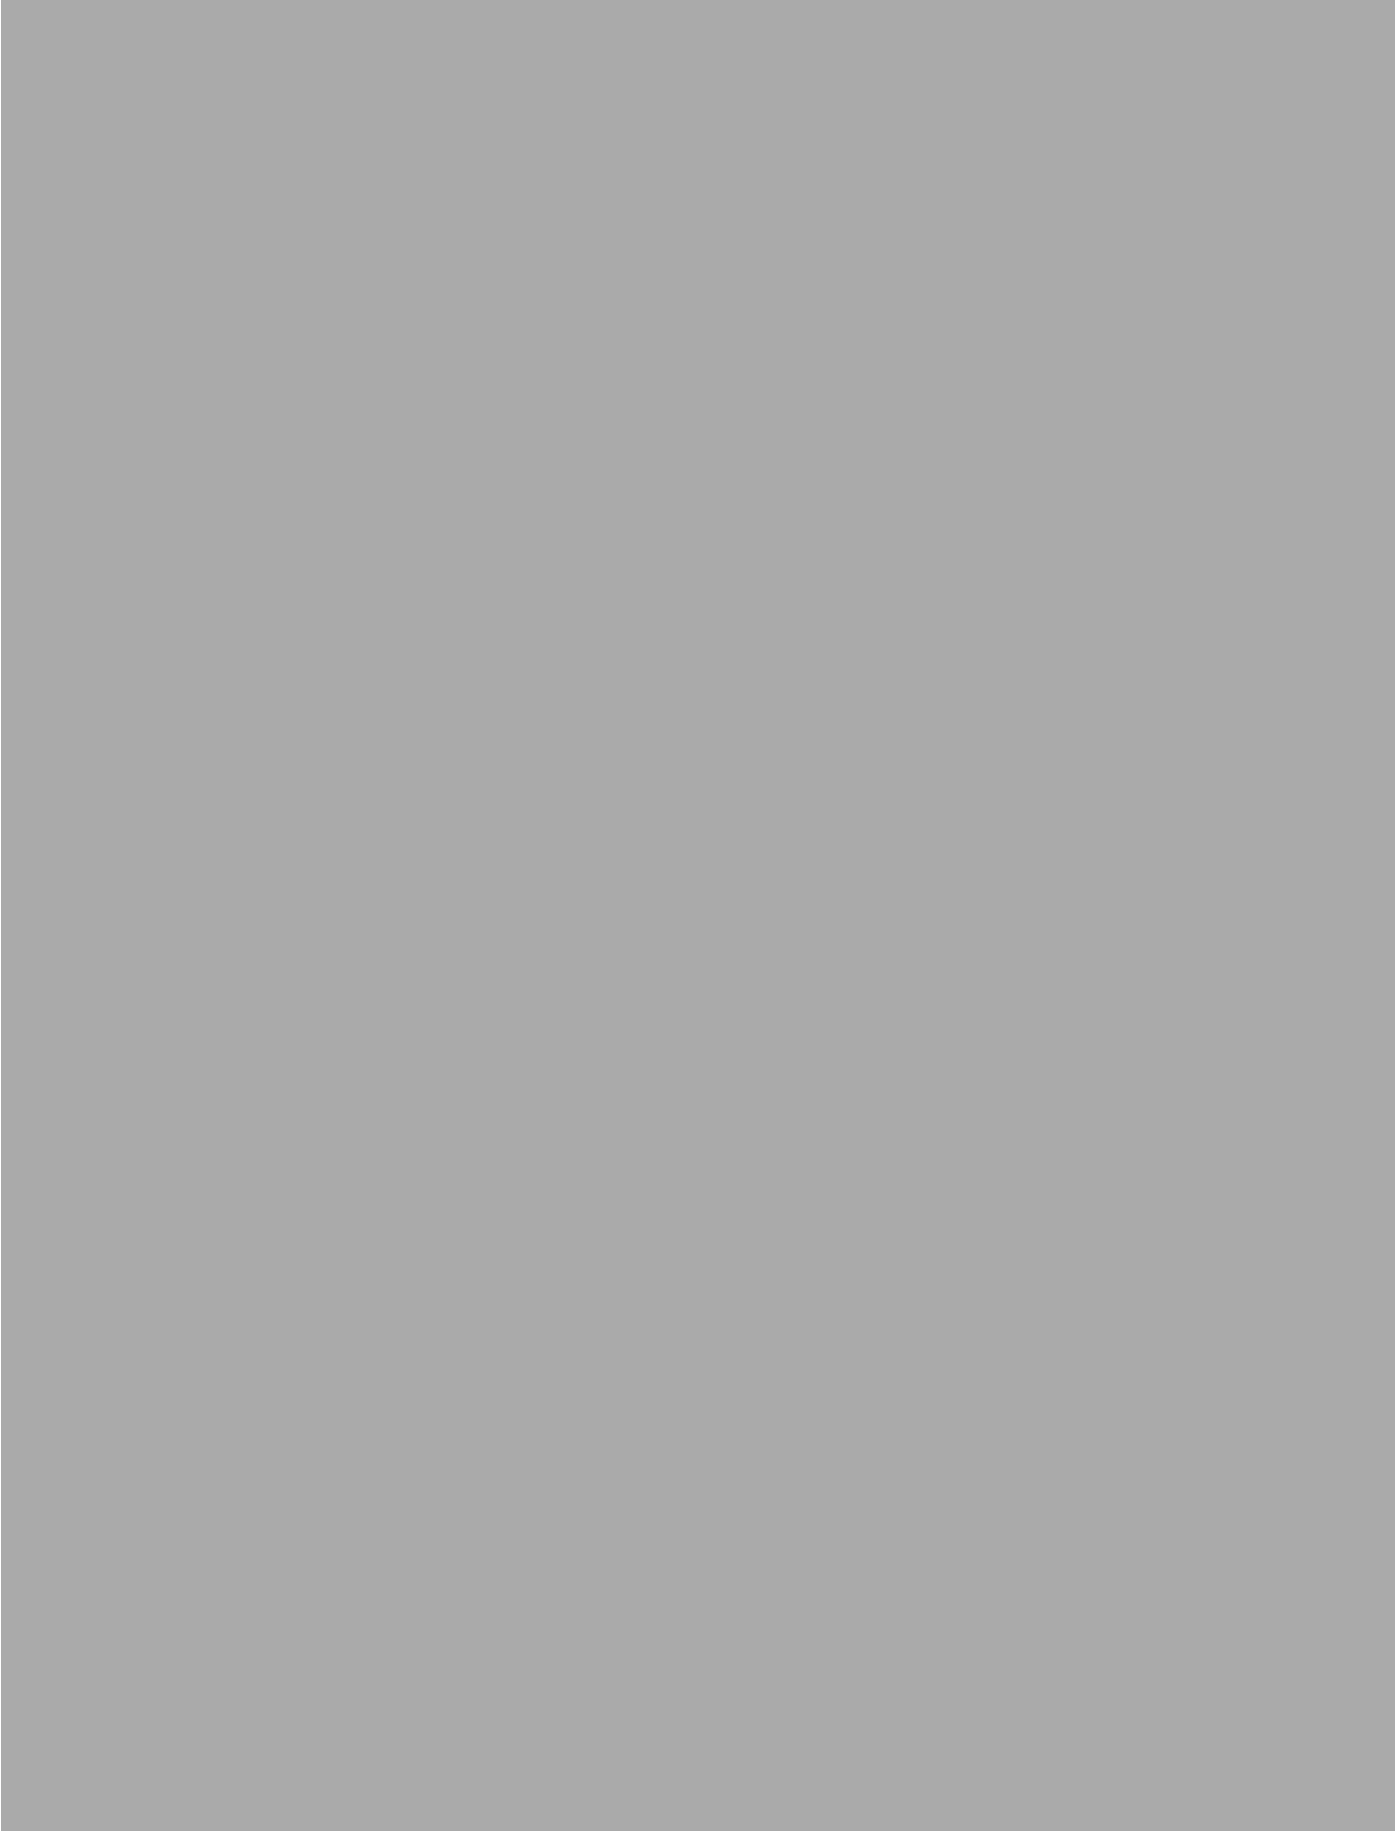

40 She never got there. Tommy burst into thunderous bellowing, and the boys, now laughing openly, started to run off towards the South Playing Field.

Extract 2 from: ‘The Boy with No Shoes’ by William Horwood

In this extract, the narrator, Rova, has been chosen to play rugby for his school team, Nunnestone, for the first time. He is about to tackle one of the opposition, from Menmore, who is much bigger than him.

W Horwood, 'The Boy with No Shoes', pp118-119, Headline Books, 2004. Item removed due to third party copyright restrictions.

W Horwood, 'The Boy with No Shoes', pp118-119, Headline Books, 2004. Item removed due to third party copyright restrictions.

W Horwood, 'The Boy with No Shoes', pp118-119, Headline Books, 2004. Item removed due to third party copyright restrictions.

3 'Animal Farm' by George Orwell and 'Lord of the Flies' by William Golding

Read the two extracts below and then answer both part a) and part b).

You are advised to spend about 45 minutes on part a) and 30 minutes on part b).

For part a), you should focus only on the extracts here rather than referring to the rest of your studied text.

- a) Compare how characters dealing with challenges to their authority are presented in these two extracts. You should consider:

the situations and experiences faced by the characters

how the characters react to these situations and experiences

how the writers' use of language and techniques creates effects. [20]

AND

- b) Explore another moment in ‘Animal Farm’ in which the pigs deal with challenges to their authority. [20]

Extract 1 from: ‘Animal Farm’ by George Orwell

This extract takes place just after Boxer has said he doesn’t believe that Snowball was a traitor at the beginning.

5 Napoleon stood sternly surveying his audience; then he uttered a high-pitched whimper. Immediately the dogs bounded forward, seized four of the pigs by the ear and dragged them, squealing with pain and terror, to Napoleon’s feet.

10 The pigs’ ears were bleeding, the dogs had tasted blood, and for a few moments they appeared to go quite mad. To the amazement of everybody, three of them flung themselves upon Boxer. Boxer

15 saw them coming and put out his great hoof, caught a dog in mid-air and pinned him to the ground.
The dog shrieked for mercy and the other two fled with their tails between their legs. Boxer looked 20 at Napoleon to know whether he should crush the dog to death or let it go. Napoleon appeared to change countenance, and sharply ordered Boxer to let the dog go, whereat
25 Boxer lifted his hoof, and the dog
slunk away, bruised and howling.

Extract 2 from: 'Lord of the Flies' by William Golding

A group of schoolboys are alone on an island. They have split into two competing groups – one led by Jack and one led by Ralph. This scene occurs just after Jack's gang have let the fire go out and have been criticised by Ralph. Samneric (Sam and Eric) are twins in Ralph's gang.

Jack glanced back at Ralph and then at the twins.

“Grab them!”

5 No one moved. Jack shouted angrily.

“I said ‘grab them’!”

10 The painted group moved round Samneric nervously and unhandily. Once more the silvery laughter scattered.

Samneric protested out of the heart of civilisation. “Oh I say!”

Their spears were taken from them.

“Tie them up!”

15 Ralph cried out hopelessly against the black and green mask. “Jack!”

“Go on. Tie them.”

20

Now the painted group felt the otherness of Samneric, felt the power in their own hands. They felled the twins clumsily and excitedly. Jack turned to Ralph and spoke between his teeth.

“See? They do what I want.”

4 'An Inspector Calls' by J. B. Priestley and 'Playing Sandwiches' by Alan Bennett

Read the two extracts below and then
answer both part a) and part b).

You are advised to spend about 45 minutes
on part a) and 30 minutes on part b).

For part a), you should focus only on the extracts here rather than referring to the rest of your studied text.

- a) Compare how the revealing of horrible deaths is presented in these two extracts. You should consider:

the situations and experiences
faced by the characters

how the characters react to these
situations and experiences

how language and dramatic features create effects. [20]

AND

- b) Explore another moment in ‘An Inspector Calls’ where something shocking is revealed. [20]

Extract 1 from: ‘An Inspector Calls’
by J. B. Priestley

This extract takes place moments
after Sheila has re-entered the room
in Act One.

Sheila: What’s all this about?

Birling: Nothing to do with you, Sheila. Run along.

Inspector: No, wait a minute, Miss Birling.

Birling: (angrily) Look here,
Inspector, I consider this uncalled-for and officious. I’ve half a mind to report you. I’ve told you all I know – and it doesn’t seem to me
very important – and now there isn't the slightest reason why my daughter should be dragged into this unpleasant business.

Sheila: (coming farther in) What business? What's happening?

Inspector: (impressively) I'm a police inspector, Miss Birling. This afternoon a young woman drank some disinfectant, and died, after several hours of agony, tonight in the Infirmary.

Sheila: Oh – how horrible! Was it an accident?

Inspector: No. She wanted to end her life. She felt she couldn't go on any longer.

Birling: Well, don't tell me that's because I discharged her from my employment nearly two years ago.

Eric: That might have started it.

Extract 2 from: 'Playing Sandwiches' by Alan Bennett

In this extract, Wilfred Paterson, a park-keeper, reveals his inner thoughts to the audience. He is remembering a conversation with his wife, Janet, the discovery of a body at work, and a meeting with a mother and child. Trickett is his supervisor.

Bit of excitement this morning. Body in the bushes. Little lad found it looking for his ball. Old man, one of the winos probably. Two police cars, an ambulance and more fuss made of him dead than there ever was alive. The child not worried at all, the mother hysterical. All over by half past ten and we were soon back in go mode, drizzle included.

I was heading for the tennis courts, trying to steer clear of the bandstand only Trickett shouts after me, 'Paterson. I don't want you skulking back there. The bandstand's in a disgusting state.'

20 Somebody'd thrown up all over the seat and I'd just about got it cleared up when the girl's calling out and the kiddy comes running in waving her little pink plastic handbag thing.
25 'Samantha's got you a present, haven't you Samantha. Give it to Mr.... what's your name?' The child was putting her arms out to be lifted up.

30 'Hargreaves,' I said. 'My name's
Hargreaves.' 'Give it to him
Samantha,' and she takes out a daffodil from her little handbag, and we put it in my buttonhole. 'She picked it herself,' the mother said.
'My name's Debbie.'

5 'My Mother Said I Never Should' by Charlotte Keatley and 'Time and the Conways' by J. B. Priestley

Read the two extracts below and then answer both part a) and part b).

You are advised to spend about 45 minutes on part a) and 30 minutes on part b).

For part a), you should focus only on the extracts here rather than referring to the rest of your studied text.

- a) Compare how women talking to their mothers about romantic relationships are presented in these two extracts. You should consider:

the situations and experiences faced by the characters

how the characters react to these situations and experiences

how language and dramatic features create effects. [20]

AND

- b) Explore another moment in ‘My Mother Said I Never Should’ where the situation of women is presented dramatically. [20]

Extract 1 from: ‘My Mother Said I Never Should’ by Charlotte Keatley

At the start of Act 1 Scene 7, Margaret is telling Doris about Ken.

Doris: I’ll be glad when they’re gone. (Disdain.) Americans.

Margaret: Mother! Without them we couldn’t have won the –

Doris: Are you going to help me fold this sheet, or are you just going to stand there all afternoon identifying aircraft!

Margaret: (staring at the sky) Maybe one of them’s Ken.

Doris: (they hold the sheet by the corners and tug) I don't see how it can be, if he's calling in half an hour.

They shake the sheet vigorously.

Margaret: I can't wait to live in London! (No reply.) Ken says he can get a job there. He's frightfully clever.

They balloon the sheet up into the air.

Margaret: I'm in love, Mother.

Distant rumble of thunder. Doris looks up at the sky.

Doris: It's not going to hold.
(Pause.)

They pull diagonals to stretch the sheet.

Margaret: And I'm going to learn to type! Ken says it will be helpful if we need a second income. (As they shake the sheet.) Typing's far more useful than all those stupid school certificates. I'll get a proper job.

Doris: What do you call running a home? (Looks up at the sky.) I knew we were in for a storm.

Margaret: I'm not wasting my life.

Doris (angry): Thank you Margaret!

Extract 2 from: 'Time and the Conways' by J. B. Priestley

It is 1919, just after the end of the First World War. Here, Mrs Conway is talking to her daughters Hazel and Carol about getting married and about what the world is like after the war. Two other daughters (Madge and Kay) are not present. Hazel and Carol are more interested in work than relationships.

Carol (solemnly): It says in the paper this morning that We Must All Get On With Our Jobs. This Mere Rush For Amusement has gone on long enough now. There's Work Waiting To Be Done.

Hazel (indignantly): A fat lot of rushing for amusement we've done, haven't we? I think that's frightfully unfair and idiotic. Just when we might have some fun, after washing up in canteens and hospitals and queueing for foul food, with nobody about at all, they go and say we've had enough amusement and must get on with our jobs. What jobs?

Carol: Rebuilding a shattered world. It said that too.

Mrs Conway (half lightly, half not, to Hazel): Your job will be to find a very nice young man and marry him. And that oughtn't to be difficult – for you.

Carol: Hurry up, Hazel, and then I can be a bridesmaid. I believe you're my only chance. Kay says she won't get married for ages, if ever, because her Writing – Her Work – must come first.

Mrs Conway: That's nonsense, my dear. When the proper young man comes along, she'll forget about her writing.

Carol: I don't believe she will, Mother. And anyhow, she won't have bridesmaids. And if Madge ever marries, I know it will be to some kind of Socialist in a tweed suit...

6 'DNA' by Dennis Kelly and 'Journey's End' by R. C. Sherriff

Read the two extracts below and then answer both part a) and part b).

You are advised to spend about 45 minutes on part a) and 30 minutes on part b).

For part a), you should focus only on the extracts here rather than referring to the rest of your studied text.

- a) Compare how threatening someone else with violence is presented in these two extracts. You should consider:

the situations and experiences faced by the characters

how the characters react to these situations and experiences

how language and dramatic features create effects. [20]

AND

- b) Explore another moment in ‘DNA’ where violence or physical abuse is presented dramatically. [20]

Extract 1 from: ‘DNA’ by Dennis Kelly

In this extract, John Tate is telling Richard not to use the word ‘dead’.

Lou: You can’t ban a word.

John Tate: and if anyone says it I’m going to have to, you know, bite their face. Or something.

Danny: How can you ban a word?

John Tate: Well just say it then.

(Pause)

Say it and see what happens.

(They say nothing)

Look, we have to keep together. We have to trust each other and believe in each other. I'm trying to help. I'm trying to keep things together.

(Richard enters, with Cathy and Brian, Cathy grinning, Brian crying.)

Richard: He's dead.

John Tate: Right that's ... now I really am getting a little bit cross, do not use that word.

Richard: What?

John Tate: No one says that word, okay, no one.

Richard: What word?

Cathy: This is mad, eh?

John Tate: You know.

Cathy: Talk about mad. I mean, it's quite exciting as well, though, isn't it.

Richard: What, 'dead'?

John Tate: Don't say it again,
Richard, or I'm gonna

Cathy: Better than ordinary life.

Richard: What?

John Tate: I'm gonna

Richard: What?

John Tate: I'm gonna
I'm gonna hurt you,
actually.

Extract 2 from 'Journey's End' by R. C. Sherriff

In this extract, two soldiers are arguing. A big attack is approaching and Hibbert is frightened he will die. He says he is ill and asks his commanding officer (Stanhope) to let him go to the doctor. He is hoping to be sent home.

Hibbert: Let me go –

Stanhope: If you went, I'd have you shot – for deserting. It's a hell of a disgrace – to die like that. I'd rather spare you the disgrace. I give you half a minute to think. You either stay here and try and be a man – or you try and get out of that door – to desert. If you do that, there's going to be an accident. D'you understand? I'm fiddling with my revolver, d'you see? – cleaning it – and it's going off by accident. It often happens out here. It's going off, and it's going to shoot you between the eyes.

Hibbert (in a whisper): You daren't –

Stanhope: You don't deserve to be shot by accident – but I'd save you the disgrace of the other way – I give you half a minute to decide. (He holds up his wrist to look at his watch.) Half a minute from now –

There is silence; a few seconds go by. Suddenly HIBBERT bursts into a high-pitched laugh.

Hibbert: Go on, then, shoot! You won't let me go to hospital. I swear I'll never go into those trenches again. Shoot! – and thank God –

Stanhope (with his eyes on his watch): Fifteen more seconds –

Hibbert: Go on! I'm ready –

Stanhope: Ten.

SECTION B

19th century prose

Answer ONE question from this section.

‘Great Expectations’ by Charles Dickens

Choose ONE question.

You are advised to spend about 45 minutes on this section.

EITHER

- 7 Explore how Dickens presents acts of forgiveness, in this extract and elsewhere in the novel. [40]

In this extract, Miss Havisham has just written a note to her lawyer agreeing to pay Pip a sum of money to be invested in Herbert’s career.

‘My name is on the first leaf. If you can ever write under my name,

“I forgive her,” though ever so long after my broken heart is dust – pray
do it!’

5

‘Oh, Miss Havisham,’ said I, ‘I can do it now. There have been sore mistakes; and my life has been a blind and thankless one; and I want forgiveness and direction far too much, to be bitter with you.’

10

She turned her face to me for the first time since she had averted it, and, to my amazement, I may even add to my terror, dropped on her knees at my feet; with her folded hands raised to me in the manner in which, when her poor heart was young and fresh and whole, they must often have been raised to Heaven from her mother’s side.

15

20

To see her with her white hair and her worn face kneeling at my feet, gave me a shock through all my frame. I entreated her to rise, and got my arms about her to help her up; but she only pressed that hand of mine which was nearest to her grasp, and hung her head over it and wept. I had never seen her shed

25

30

35 a tear before, and in the hope that the relief might do her good, I bent over her without speaking. She was not kneeling now, but was down upon the ground.
‘Oh!’ she cried, despairingly.
‘What have I done! What have I done!’

OR

8 “‘Great Expectations’ is a story about love.’ How far do you agree with this view?

Explore at least two moments from the novel to support your ideas. [40]*

‘Pride and Prejudice’ by Jane Austen

Choose ONE question.

You are advised to spend about 45 minutes on this section.

EITHER

- 9 Explore how Austen presents the influence of family, in this extract and elsewhere in the novel. [40]

In this extract, Darcy admits to Elizabeth that previously he let his prejudices about class cloud his judgement.

- 5 ‘I cannot give you credit for any philosophy of the kind. Your retrospections must be so totally void of reproach, that the contentment arising from them, is not of philosophy, but what is much better, of ignorance. But with me, it is not so. Painful recollections will intrude, which cannot, which

10 ought not to be repelled. I have been a selfish being all my life, in practice, though not in principle.
As a child I was taught what was 15 right, but I was not taught to correct my temper. I was given good principles, but left to follow them in pride and conceit. Unfortunately, an only son (for many years an only 20 child), I was spoilt by my parents, who though good themselves (my father, particularly, all that was benevolent and amiable), allowed, encouraged, almost taught me to be selfish and overbearing, to care for 25 none beyond my own family circle, to think meanly of all the rest of the world, to wish at least to think meanly of their sense and worth compared with my own. Such I was, 30 from eight to eight and twenty; and such I might still have been but for you, dearest, loveliest Elizabeth!
What do I not owe you! You taught me a lesson, hard indeed at first, but 35 most advantageous. By you, I was properly humbled. I came to you without a doubt of my reception.

40 You showed me how insufficient were all my pretensions to please a woman worthy of being pleased.'

OR

10 'It is appropriate that the novel ends by telling us that Elizabeth and Darcy were always on "intimate terms" with Mr and Mrs Gardiner.' How far do you agree with this view?

Explore at least two moments from the
novel to support your ideas. [40]

‘The War of the Worlds’ by H. G. Wells

Choose ONE question.

You are advised to spend about 45 minutes on this section.

EITHER

- 11 Explore how Wells presents lack of understanding, in this extract and elsewhere in the novel. [40]

In this extract, the narrator reflects on the lessons learnt from the Martian attack.

- 5 Neither is the composition of the Black Smoke known, which the Martians used with such deadly effect, and the generator of the Heat-Rays remains a puzzle. The terrible disasters at the Ealing and South Kensington laboratories have disinclined analysts for further investigations upon the latter.
- 10 Spectrum analysis of the black powder points unmistakably to the presence of an unknown element with a brilliant group of three lines in the green, and it is possible that 15 it combines with argon to form a compound which acts at once with deadly effect upon some constituent in the blood. But such unproven speculations will scarcely be of 20 interest to the general reader, to whom this story is addressed. None of the brown scum that drifted down the Thames after the destruction of Shepperton was examined at the 25 time, and now none is forthcoming.

The results of an anatomical examination of the Martians, so far as the prowling dogs had left such an examination possible, I 30 have already given. But everyone is familiar with the magnificent and almost complete specimen in spirits at the Natural History Museum, and the countless drawings that have 35 been made from it; and beyond that the interest of their physiology and structure is purely scientific.

40 A question of graver and universal interest is the possibility of another attack from the Martians. I do not think that nearly enough attention is being given to this aspect of the matter. At present the planet Mars is in conjunction, but with every return 45 to opposition I, for one, anticipate a renewal of their adventure. In any case, we should be prepared.
It seems to me that it should be possible to define the position of 50 the gun from which the shots are discharged, to keep a sustained watch upon this part of the planet, and to anticipate the arrival of the next attack.

OR

12 'The Martians' weakness is obvious from the beginning.' How far do you agree with this view?

Explore at least two moments from the
novel to support your ideas. [40]

‘The Strange Case of Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde’ by Robert Louis Stevenson

Choose ONE question.

You are advised to spend about 45 minutes on this section.

EITHER

- 13 Explore how Stevenson uses silence and unwillingness to speak, in this extract and elsewhere in the novel. [40]

In this extract, Mr Utterson and Enfield stand below Dr Jekyll’s window and try to convince him to go for a walk with them.

5 ‘You are very good,’ sighed the other. ‘I should like to very much; but no, no, no; it is quite impossible; I dare not. But indeed, Utterson, I am very glad to see you; this is really a great pleasure. I would ask you and Mr Enfield up, but the place is really not fit.'

10 'Why then,' said the lawyer, good-naturedly, 'the best thing we can do is to stay down here and speak with you from where we are.'

15 'That is just what I was about to venture to propose,' returned the doctor, with a smile. But the words were hardly uttered, before the smile was struck out of his face and succeeded by an expression of such abject terror and despair, 20 as froze the very blood of the two gentlemen below. They saw it but for a glimpse, for the window was instantly thrust down; but that glimpse had been sufficient,
25 and they turned and left the court without a word. In silence, too, they traversed the by-street; and it was not until they had come into a neighbouring thoroughfare, where 30 even upon a Sunday there were still some stirrings of life, that Mr Utterson at last turned and looked at his companion. They were both pale; and there was an answering 35 horror in their eyes.

‘God forgive us! God forgive us!’
said Mr Utterson.

40 But Mr Enfield only nodded his head very seriously, and walked on once more in silence.

OR

14 ‘The minor characters of Carew and Poole play important parts in moving the story along.’ How far do you agree
with this view?

Explore at least two moments from the
novel to support your ideas. [40]

‘Jane Eyre’ by Charlotte Brontë

Choose ONE question.

You are advised to spend about 45 minutes on this section.

EITHER

- 15 Explore how Brontë presents the idea of being trapped, in this extract and elsewhere in the novel. [40]

In this extract, Jane has arrived at Thornfield and although her new life is comfortable Jane longs for something different.

- 5 Who blames me? Many, no doubt; and I shall be called discontented. I could not help it: the restlessness was in my nature; it agitated me to pain sometimes. Then my sole relief was to walk along the corridor of the third storey, backwards and forwards, safe in the silence and solitude of the spot, and allow my

10 mind's eye to dwell on whatever bright visions rose before it – and, certainly, they were many and glowing; to let my heart be heaved by the exultant movement, 15 which, while it swelled it in trouble, expanded it with life; and, best of all, to open my inward ear to a tale that was never ended – a tale my imagination created, and narrated 20 continuously; quickened with all of incident, life, fire, feeling, that I desired and had not in my actual existence.

It is in vain to say human beings
25 ought to be satisfied with tranquillity:
they must have action; and they will make it if they cannot find it.
Millions are condemned to a stiller doom than mine, and millions are in 30 silent revolt against their lot. Nobody knows how many rebellions besides political rebellions ferment in the masses of life which people earth.
Women are supposed to be very 35 calm generally: but women feel just as men feel; they need exercise for their faculties, and a field for their efforts, as much as their brothers do; they suffer from too rigid a 40 restraint, too absolute a stagnation,

precisely as men would suffer;
and it is narrow-minded in their more privileged fellow-creatures to say that they ought to confine 45 themselves to making puddings and knitting stockings, to playing on the piano and embroidering bags.
It is thoughtless to condemn them,
or laugh at them, if they seek to do 50 more or learn more than custom has pronounced necessary for their sex.

OR

16 'The lessons which Jane learns at Thornfield are more important than her experiences at other places where she lives.' How far do you agree with this view?

Explore at least two moments from the
novel to support your ideas. [40]*

END OF QUESTION PAPER

BLANK PAGE

BLANK PAGE

BLANK PAGE

Copyright Information

OCR is committed to seeking permission to reproduce all third-party content that it uses in its assessment materials. OCR has attempted to identify and contact all copyright holders whose work is used in this paper. To avoid the issue of disclosure of answer-related information to candidates, all copyright acknowledgements are reproduced in the OCR Copyright Acknowledgements Booklet. This is produced for each series of examinations and is freely available to download from our public website (www.ocr.org.uk) after the live examination series.

If OCR has unwittingly failed to correctly acknowledge or clear any third-party content in this assessment material, OCR will be happy to correct its mistake at the earliest possible opportunity.

For queries or further information please contact The OCR Copyright Team, The Triangle Building, Shaftesbury Road, Cambridge CB2 8EA.

OCR is part of the Cambridge Assessment Group; Cambridge Assessment is the brand name of University of Cambridge Local Examinations Syndicate (UCLES), which is itself a department of the University of Cambridge.