General Marking Guidance

- All candidates must receive the same treatment. Examiners must mark the first candidate in exactly the same way as they mark the last.
- Mark schemes should be applied positively. Candidates must be rewarded for what they have shown they can do rather than penalised for omissions.
- Examiners should mark according to the mark scheme not according to their perception of where the grade boundaries may lie.
- There is no ceiling on achievement. All marks on the mark scheme should be used appropriately.
- All the marks on the mark scheme are designed to be awarded. Examiners should always award full marks if deserved, i.e. if the answer matches the mark scheme. Examiners should also be prepared to award zero marks if the candidate's response is not worthy of credit according to the mark scheme.
- Where some judgement is required, mark schemes will provide the principles by which marks will be awarded and exemplification may be limited.
- When examiners are in doubt regarding the application of the mark scheme to a candidate's response, the team leader must be consulted.
- Crossed out work should be marked UNLESS the candidate has replaced it with an alternative response.

3(b)	The response might well mention activities which are or are not available in the candidate's home town or region. Responses including reference to the home itself are credited for all relevant information, and benefit of the doubt is given e.g. playing football, unless explicitly in the back garden, could be treated as a relevant activity in the town. Some opinion would be expected, even at a basic level. When activities are undertaken and with whom might feature, but all of this information is possible, and might be absent, even in fully credited responses: the prompts are suggestions, not requirements	(10)

	Answer	Mark
6(a)	Typical answers might include mention of food and drink consumed or not. There needs to be an opinion on the future health of young people. Specific responses will be most highly credited. Generally accounts of healthy lifestyle, rather than diet, are less worthy of credit.	(20)
6(b)	Candidates need to state at least one programmes liked, then should offer some justification. The second prompt is most successful when based on one concert/film recently visited/watched and some justification, although there could be an absence of use for full credit, if developed suitably. The fourth bullet point rewards plausible speculation, especially if developed.
6 (c)	The format of the response is not taken into account, but an email is sought. A wrong register is not penalised eg a letter. There can be reference to the stimulus but this is not required. A statement on what the candidate's own birthday celebrations are like is required information beyond the simple and factual is desirable. The changes will be of varying complexity but even minor details, such as no longer a birthday cake, is acceptable. The second prompt does not seek mention of constant details. The third prompt needs a preference but treatment of both sides is not needed. The fourth bullet point requires a future notion with some justification, as to coming birthday celebrations will be. No celebration is acceptable and could be developed for full credit e.g. nothing because it is pointless and other activities are preferred.
